Murphy won't vote today on site purchase County could nix center in Pleasanton

The hillside site for an east county government center took what might well be a mortal blow yesterday when First District Supervisor John D. Murphy of Pleasanton announced he will not vote on the issue.

Murphy revealed he had discovered a provision of Proposition 9, the Fair Campaign Practices Act, which indicated a possible conflict of interest because of his ownership of one-fifth of a neighboring parcel of land which includes an office building complex housing his old firm of Cooper, McKenzie and Murphy.

The supervisor said he had contacted Alameda County District Attorney Lowell Jensen after discovering his interest in the property had been questioned as a possible conflict of interest.

He declared he still believes the site to be best suited for an east valley county government center because of the availability of public transportation, eating and shopping facilities, but that his vote would be useless in case a conflict were involved.

"The Santa Rita site is in the middle of nowhere," he declared.

Murphy is an equal partner in "HAARD Enterprise," a general partnership, with Robert H. Cooper, Donald R. McKenzie, Eugene A. Wiczkowski and Robert S. Foster. The same five also are partners in the supervisor's insurance firm.

Their land and offices are at the foot of the proposed 56-acre hill site off Sunol Boulevard and will appreciate considerably if supervisors choose that land.

Incorporation papers on HAARD — the acronym is never spelled out — were filed in Alameda County in January, 1972, although a "quitclaim" on their 78 Mission Dr. property is dated September, 1971.

County records show a net full cash value of $117,500 on HAARD's Mission Drive offices and land. The land is appraised at $40,000, the improvements at $77,500.

The 1971 "quitclaim" on the property is from Transamerica Title Insurance Co., owners of two adjacent parcels on Mission Drive.

The proposed East County Government Center site is appraised by the county at $110,000 full cash value, but supervisors are prepared to pay $468,432. The assessed value is $27,500. Property taxes on the hill top site have not been paid since 1971. California law provides for the sale at auction of property delinquent in taxes for five years.

A final decision on purchasing the 56 acres is scheduled for tonight's board of supervisors meeting.

Until Murphy's decision to abstain in the vote, the purchase seemed assured a sure three-vote majority.

Supervisor Joseph Bort termed it the best available site, adding the county's land at Santa Rita — a competing site — would be "the stupidest" place to put the future government center.

Board chairman Fred Cooper voted last week to order the county auditor to draw up a warrant on the property as prelude to a purchase, but indicated he was not necessarily agreeing it is the site to buy.

Supervisors Charles Santana and Tom Bates both voted against the warrant and have indicated a reluctance to support the hilltop proposal.

Bates questioned the filing of a negative environmental impact report on a piece of prime property overlooking the valley; the lack of sewer connections; and the county's ability to chip off only $7,000 from the asking price on property that may be up for auction next year if taxes aren't paid.

One in every crowd

"Hey, wait for me," yelled Tina Criqui of Pleasanton when she saw the bus headed for a weekend trip to Disneyland pull away from the curb 6 a.m. Friday. "There's one in every crowd," quipped Dan Diez of the Pleasanton Recreation Department in checking over his list of 42 vibrating teens who enjoyed three days and two nights at Howard Johnsons, a trip to the Wax Museum and a full day at Disneyland. Diez is in the planning stages of a future trip up to the snow.

Charges 'Neanderthal thinking' by county

Futch won't run—blasts NewTown

LIVERMORE — Mayor Archer Futch last night announced he would not seek re-election to the city council and went on to blast NewTown as "an active conspiracy" for the sole benefit of developer Harlan Geldermann.

After praising environmental advances made during the past decade by the federal, state and regional governments, Futch took aim at Alameda County.

"Unfortunately, Neanderthal thinking still prevails in Alameda County. Geldertown has been an active conspiracy by the Alameda County Board of Supervisors to promote the real estate venture of one man at enormous public expense to the citizens of Livermore.

"This planning nightmare has been stopped by the Livermore City Council along with help from the Association of Bay Area Governments."

The mayor, whose term on the council expires in March, added he is confident all council candidates will continue "this struggle" with the remaining council majority.

Councilman Don Miller, another foe of Geldertown, also will be up for re-election in March and continued to remain silent on his political plans.

Futch, ending his first term on the council, explained he decided not to seek re-election in order to devote more of his time and energies to his scientific work and family. Futch is a physicist at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory. He also served as the city planning commissioner for four years before election to the council.

"It has been a time of significant change," the mayor went on. "The problems of the next decade will be different than the problems of the past."

"Although the battle is never won, impressive progress has been made in preventing the Livermore Valley from becoming the 'San Fernando Valley' of Northern California."

Futch praised the creation during the past eight years of the National Environmental Protection Act, Northern California Environmental Quality Act and the Environmental Protection Agency.

The earliest North P Street and North Livermore Avenue will be open to traffic in the first or second week in January, Mayor Futch announced at the city council meeting last night.

Futch's announcement, in which he also offered the council's regrets to effected merchants, came on the day the railroad relocation project was to open.

The mayor said he had sent letters to those businesses most likely to be effected by the delay, asking their suggestions to ease the impact.

The delay was caused by the need for unforeseen repairs in pillars supporting railroad track crossing bridges.

Registrars' training set

PLEASANTON — The Alameda County Registrar of Voters will conduct a training class January 5 for persons or groups wishing to serve as voter registrars for the upcoming March election.

Call the city manager's office, 846-3202, for more information or to register for the class.

It's possible

Another jail in the valley?

PLEASANTON — Alameda County has not ruled out the possibility of putting a jail on the future East County office and courts center, a county spokesman said yesterday.

The Kaiser report commissioned by county supervisors has advised that the county build overnight jail facilities, not just daytime holding cells, at three county locations: north county, Hayward, and either Fremont or Newark. The Kaiser report adds that a logical place for consolidated courts in the valley would be at Santa Rita, since there is potential to house prisoners there full time. But the report does not address itself to the hillside and flatland sites in Pleasanton.

For the answer to that one we turned to county administration staffer Roland Mayne.

Asked about the two sites in Pleasanton — the hill near Mission Park and the parcel adjacent to the Pleasanton civic center — Mayne said that an overnight jail could not be ruled out at this time.

"There is not enough caseload in the valley now to justify building a jail next to a court, but at the time there is, it would be up to the county to decide whether it is better to build a jail at the court facility or build it at Santa Rita," said Mayne.

"We have to have a large enough site in the beginning for county offices, courts and the jail. We can't buy insufficient land because it would preempt making the decision at a later date," said Mayne.

The valley's supervisor, John D. Murphy, said yesterday, "no way" would the county put an overnight jail with the court facility. Plans call for only daytime holding facility for any jail that would be adjacent to a Pleasanton court, said Murphy.

Pleasanton council members polled by The Times said they have not raised the question about an overnight jail. They just endorsed only the location, not the various uses, when they endorsed the concept six months ago, said Councilman Robert Philcox.

Philcox said he would be concerned about an overnight jail if it housed tough felony prisoners. Lighter offenders would not bother him. There are many advantages to having the East County Government Center located in Pleasanton and the city "can't say it wants all the good things without taking some of the bad," said Philcox. "It's all taxpayer's money, no matter how you spend it."

William Herlihy, the only council member to vote against endorsing the Mission Park hill site for the center location, is concerned about "taxpayers' money" and also the possibility of overnight jail facilities. "We don't know much about it. We don't know the size of the building and I have heard that maybe it would include a 75-bed jail. I think the hill site and the flatlands site is the wrong site for the county center. I'm really upset that we can't discuss it on the council. People are just beginning to find out about it and realizing what is happening."

"I want to put Pleasanton first. The police and fire protection for the center will have to be paid by the city and so will traffic control. My guess is we'll have to put in a traffic signal at Sunol Boulevard and Mission Drive, with 200 county employees working there. We can't have Pleasanton taxpayers subsidizing Alameda County," said Herlihy.

Herlihy, Mercer

Two more enter race

PLEASANTON — The city council race began to take a definite shape yesterday with formal announcements by Ken Mercer and incumbent William Herlihy that they will run.

They join announced candidates Jim Jordan, Russ Attebery and incumbent Roger McLain at the starting post. Local businessman Gene Finch is also expected to be a candidate, though he has not made a formal announcement.

Housing authority commissioner Christine Pearson, who had given some thought to running for council, told The Times yesterday she has decided against it. Pearson, who is no relation to former mayor Robert Pearson, will face major surgery next week at Kaiser Hospital in Walnut Creek. Mayor Ed Kinney was unavailable for comment yesterday about whether he will run.

Mercer said he is running because he feels he can "add managerial dimensions to the city council." He is vice-chairman of the park and recreation commission and chairperson of the city's bicentennial committee. Mercer is past president of the Livermore Chamber of Commerce and spent a year as chief administrative assistant to the late Carlos Bee, Speaker Pro-Tem of the Assembly. He has been manager of Pacific Telephone for Fremont, Hayward and the valley for the past eight years.

Mercer asked that anyone wishing to donate time, a coffee, or make a financial contribution can reach him at home, 846-3433.

Herlihy issued a formal statement on his candidacy yesterday. In it he said, "It has been my privilege during these past four years to participate in the most productive years of Pleasanton. Major improvements have been made at the Youth Sports Park, our neighborhood parks are continuing to be developed, a cultural arts center and a youth building have been added to Amador Community Park and the first increment of the civic center was constructed."

"These improvements, as well as those in traffic safety and fire protection, reflect a responsive government dedicated to improving the quality of life in Pleasanton. I believe there must also be a broad interest on the part of the council in valley affairs. I have been concerned about proper open space. I opposed the Eastbay garbage dump in Pleasanton and traffic truck in Pleasanton."

"Equally important are those issues that may effect the cost of government. For it is only through a strong council, good management, and fiscal responsibility that we can maintain the high standards of Pleasanton. I believe in a sincere and open government which serves people of fundamentally differing viewpoints. It is my goal to serve these diversities for the common good," said Herlihy.

A new sidewalk for Vintage

PLEASANTON — Community-minded citizens volunteering effort and materials have once again helped a school become a more vital part of the community.

Vintage Hills School, the Pleasanton district's newest facility, will have a new sidewalk extending from the black top area around back of the building for a distance of 150 feet.

Cement donated by Rhodes and Jamieson was poured Monday afternoon. A second section of sidewalk, approximately 50 feet in length, will be put in next.

The more than 19 yards of concrete for the five foot-wide walkway was obtained through the efforts of Bill Reeves, a Rhodes and Jamieson employee who has headed up the improvement of the grounds surrounding the school on Concord.

Reeves, in fact, took several days off from work to further the project. Among those who have worked evenings and weekends since October are Brian Hoyt, Dick Langendoff, Bob Bruns, Ron Henderson, Dan Eberstein and Walt Schaumburg. The project is expected to be completed by spring.

In addition to the cement, and peat gravel for play areas, forms and stakes for the sidewalk were donated by parents and the city.

The project is but another example of community - PTA - school teamwork that has resulted in both students and staff having a better environment in which to play, work and learn.

Mrs. Phyllis Clark, teaching vice principal at the school, said the parents hope to start landscaping in early spring.

Industries start 'new and beneficial' pit plan

The gravel industry today announced the start on "a comprehensive reclamation plan" aimed at determining "new and beneficial uses" for the depleted pits that will someday embrace 3000 acres in the heart of the Amador - Livermore Valley.

The program (first disclosed by The Times some weeks ago) will represent the first such "comprehensive effort" by California Rock and Gravel, Kaiser Sand and Gravel, Lone Star Industries and Rhodes-Jamieson. The project is being handled by Environ, an engineering consultant firm based in San Leandro.

Co-ordinating the effort will be Richard Karn, a partner in Environ and once the chief engineer for the Alameda County Flood Control District. Karn says he expects to make a progress report to public agencies early in 1976.

Karn stresses "close cooperation from these agencies" as a key ingredient in any "meaningful implementation" of the vast reclamation program. He does not clarify just what role local and regional government will be expected to play, but Karn does say that "industrial, recreational and open space in particular" will be suggested uses for the thousands of acres left in the wake of gravel extraction.

The news release does not specify how, or even if the depleted pits are to be filled before these new uses are attempted. There is also no mention of solid waste as a possible fill material, a proposal advanced in the past by Kaiser and which won some early county support before it was blocked at the state level, largely due to local reaction to the use of garbage as a reclamation source.

Supervisor John D. Murphy said he "welcomes the project" adding that "it will deal with most of the area between the cities of Livermore and Pleasanton and will, therefore, have a profound effect on the future quality of both cities." Murphy cited newly enacted state legislation as a new prod toward such reclamation.

Reclamation of those pits has been an item of valley concern for the last 20 years, dating back to Kaiser's acquisition of the Cope-Mohr ranches, just east of Pleasanton's city limits. Kaiser and Pleasanton agreed some 15 years ago to a program providing for "buffering" of those pits from the Martin Avenue residential areas. Kaiser also agreed at that time to annex much of its new quarry area including its $10 million processing plant to the City of Pleasanton.

Other than Kaiser's aborted plan for importing solid waste to fill the depleted pits, the only reclamation program was development of Shadow Cliffs Park from land deeded to the East Bay Regional Park District by Kaiser.

Another 100-plus acres owned by Kaiser and that was never used for extensive gravel production has been converted to industrial use by that firm.

Zone 7 and Pleasanton have been raising questions in recent years about the long-term impact on underground water resources from excavations which reach depths of 100 feet and more. This new project launched by the four major extractors will apparently seek to answer some of those water resource concerns.

"We may not be able to provide a solution to all of these problems," Karn said, "but I personally think the plan will hasten the realization of a continuing ground water management program for the Livermore-Amador Valley."

"RAP" SHEET

High speed chase ends in arrest
LIVERMORE — A 17-year-old Livermore Youth was arrested after a high speed chase on Stanley through the downtown Saturday night, police said yesterday.
Officer Richard Sibley spotted a late model Camaro driving at a high rate of speed westbound on Stanley Blvd. as he waited to exit the Valley Memorial Hospital parking lot.
Sibley pursued the vehicle and activated his lights and siren as the cars crossed Fenton and continued chasing the car at speeds of up to 80 miles per hour.
The suspect vehicle finally pulled over about a mile west of Isabel Ave. Sibley arrested a 17-year-old Livermore youth on investigation of charges of excessive speed, failure to yield to an emergency vehicle, and driving with alcohol in the vehicle.
The suspect was released to custody of his parents.

Four juveniles arrested in burglary
LIVERMORE — Four juveniles aged 11-19 years were arrested after a police investigation led to confessions by all four suspects that they entered a house and stole food, stereo tapes, records, tequila and a camera.
The boys admitted they entered a house in the 2200 block of Linden Friday through an unlocked door and took items they thought could be sold for money to play pinball machines.
One of the youths first told police he witnessed the crime and proceeded to identify all those concerned. He later admitted to being an accomplice in the burglary.
All were released to their parents.

Firebombing attempt under investigation
PLEASANTON — Police are investigating the fire bombing of a yard caused by vandals who filled a tennis ball with a flammable substance, set it aflame and threw it over a back fence into a patio on Calle Santa Anna Sunday evening.
Helen M. McGinnis told police she looked out her kitchen window just in time to see a ball of fire land in her yard. She quickly extinguished the flames and called police.
Police are centering their investigation on two male juveniles who live near the scene of the fire bombing.

Three men with loaded guns arrested
LIVERMORE — Police arrested three men early Sunday on investigation of charges they had in their possession a loaded shotgun, a .22-caliber pistol, two boxes of shells and a baggie of suspected marijuana.
A security guard tipped police to a man with a shotgun standing in front of Ace Hi Liquors on First St. Police didn't find the armed man, but the guard supplied them with a description of the car in which he allegedly drove away.
The car was spotted a short time later in a church parking lot on Vasco Road. As the officer approached the car, he saw a double barreled shotgun with two shells in the chamber, a chrome pistol, and ammunition. A baggie of suspected marijuana and a hand-rolled cigarette were found later.
Arrested were Stephen Marshall Dixon of Brentwood, a 17-year-old Bethel Island resident, and a 17-year-old Livermore resident and Del Valle High School student.

Chain saw stolen from Canton St. home
LIVERMORE — A $265 chain saw was stolen sometime late Friday from Paul Joseph Cardozo's Canton St. home, police said yesterday. Thieves apparently entered the unlocked garage and took only the power saw, police said.
Burglary nets $615 in valuables
PLEASANTON — More than $615 of items including two shotguns, a woman's watch, leather gloves and school books were taken from a parked car in the 7600 block of Knollbrook Sunday.

Berleen Shauf Gonzales told police the car was locked when he left, but returned to find the loss. Police theorized the thief might be a college student, since several Cal State Hayward schoolbooks were taken.
Stereo tapes taken from car on Catalina
LIVERMORE — Approximately $200 in stereo tapes was taken from William Lawrence O'Brian's car while it was parked on the 700 block of Catalina Sunday.

Thieves apparently entered the locked vehicle by using a coathanger or similar object and removed the loss. A juvenile was seen near the car earlier and is being sought for questioning, police said.
Pot party bust on Dakota Ct.
LIVERMORE — A routine traffic stop by police on a car driving without its headlights led to a pot party bust early Saturday.

Officer Donn Neher pulled the car over and smelled burning pot while talking to the driver. He asked the driver if he and the two passengers had been smoking grass, to which he replied, "yes."
Continued questioning led police to a house in the 800 block of Dakota Ct. where a small quantity of suspected marijuana and hash was found.
No arrests were made, but citations to appear in court were issued to the two passengers and three people in the house.

A plan for the depleted pits?

The land left ravaged by extraction of sand and gravel throughout much of this century will be the target of a new reclamation study being undertaken by the four major extractors operating between Livermore and Pleasanton. Close to 3000 acres bounded by the Arroyo del Valle on the south and just below Interstate 580 on the north will have yielded millions of tons of material by the end of this century. The industry is now undertaking a "comprehensive reclamation plan" for much of that area. The story is on page 1.

'School-Within-a-School'

SWS a success at Granada

LIVERMORE — Around Granada High, "SWS" doesn't conjure up images of ski slopes and fondue.

Instead, it refers to "School-Within-a-School," or the unpronounceable acronym "SWS," which almost instantly became known as "Swish."

(Except for one San Francisco educator with a doctorate in front of his name, who thanked Granada High staff for showing him the "SWISH" program last spring.)

Livermore's pioneering SWS program is an attempt to offer structured, closely monitored daily classes for students who need and want that kind of regimentation, while preserving the self-scheduling system characteristic of Granada High, for the rest of the students.

And SWS has been a resounding success, according to its first evaluation which will be discussed tonight.

The SWS report is high on the agenda for tonight's Livermore Unified School District public meeting, which begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Education Center, 685 Las Positas Blvd. (at Murietta.)

According to the report, SWS started a year ago with 130 students and has grown to 200, a figure which seems to accommodate everyone who wants to be in the program.

SWS students improved their grades by about two-thirds of a grade, on the average. They also took an average of 12.6 credits more per year than in their pre-SWS days.

Two questionnaires, one for parents and one for students, helped the Granada High evaluating committee find out where SWS stood as far as the consumers were concerned.

Response was mostly positive. Most students (119 out of 130) said SWS helped them "have a more positive attitude." Three-fourths said SWS helped them feel better about themselves.

One big complaint parents had in pre-SWS days was that their sons and daughters could cut class and parents weren't notified.

Some educators contended that tattling on a 17-year-old would probably not change his attendance habits. But "parent-teacher contact" that goes as far as calling a parent at work if his child misses even one class, has been one of the most popular parts of SWS from the parents' point of view.

Some 88 per cent of the 50 parents who returned the survey said intensified monitoring had been helpful. And 82 per cent said their children had better grades, better attitude, better attendance.

Only two or three people didn't think SWS was "generally beneficial" to their children and wouldn't recommend the program to others.

The program isn't all roses, the report admits. In the beginning — September, 1974 — several students who had been dropouts were lured back to school to try the program. Several of them proved "disruptive" and eventually dropped out again.

Looking on the bright side, SWS lead teacher Jack Beery and Granada vice principal Gary Kenny predict the SWS program will help head off dropouts in the first place, eliminating such problems in the future.

Another problem was that SWS students had trouble scheduling their elective classes. Each SWS student takes five required classes, and also take an elective subject such as art, music or another of the rich variety of specialized classes Granada has to offer.

The problem has been that not enough SWS students want to take any particular elective to merit a special SWS class. Instead, students try to schedule their electives outside of SWS, in Granada's regular program. But since the daily GHS schedule varies, they have had trouble catching their chosen class.

An attempt is being made to remedy the problem by starting SWS some 40 minutes after the regular Granada day begins — at 9 a.m.

That will give SWS students the option of catching their elective class either before the 9 o'clock SWS day begins, or after it ends in the afternoon.

The stigma many feared would be attached to SWS doesn't seem to have materialized, and students exhibit little resentment at being channeled into the program some have criticized as "lockstep."

Asked what they liked about SWS teachers, there were the disgruntled few who replied, "Nothing."

But others said things like "understanding," caring about people, helpful, friendly, and "They are not so mean."

School scores to be reviewed

PLEASANTON — Pleasanton school district second and third graders of 1974-75 scored higher than the median district in the state in every reading test content area, according to results that will be reviewed by trustees Wednesday night.

And sixth and twelfth graders (of 1974-75) scored within the comparison score range in reading, written expression, spelling and mathematics. The twelfth graders tested last spring attended Amador district high schools. The results are part of a report to be made by Gloria Jones, director of pupil services, at Wednesday night's meeting. Trustees will convene at 7:30 p.m. at the District Educational Center, 123 Main St.

Pleasanton board members are also slated to review items from the meet and confer process, consider adoption of a resolution authorizing sale of personal property of less than $500 value, hear a Fairlands School report and review administrative regulations regarding assignment and transfer policy.

Board members are also expected to act on recommendations for teaching vice principal positions at district schools. The TVP positions have been a source of controversy involving the administration, board and the Amador Valley Teachers Association.

Mrs. Jones, in her report on the state testing program, notes the scoring used in the report to indicate achievement levels of California pupils is the average per cent correct score. For a given set of questions, this number is the average percentage of correct test responses.

Results of second graders taking the tests last spring show they were at the 85th percentile or above in word identification, phonetic analysis, consonants and vowels. They were also far above the median district in the state in vocabulary, denotational, relational, synonyms, comprehension, literal, details, interpretive, main idea and study locational.

Third graders were between the 90th and 95th percentile in word identification, phonetic analysis, consonants, vowels, vocabulary, denotational, relational, and synonyms.

Sixth graders achieved their highest percentile rank in written expression as did twelfth graders.

Golf course tops agenda

LIVERMORE — Whether a miniature golf course should be allowed to develop on the north side of Portola Avenue at its juncture with the I-580 right-of-way will be discussed during a planning commission public hearing tonight.

The hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Municipal Court Chambers, 39 S. Livermore Ave., and is part of an extensive planning commission meeting agenda tonight.

Planners also are slated to consider the noise element of the General Plan; a variance request by the Sunset Development Company; recommended members for the energy conservation committee.

A message in the star

The question frequently arises — what is the "message" in the bicentennial emblem which appears on flags, pins, printed matter and dozens of other things?

The symbol is derived from the stars, stripes and colors of Old Glory itself. The symbol is in the form of a five-pointed American star in white. The star is surrounded by continuous red, white and blue stripes forming a second star.

The double star is symbolic of the two centuries which have passed since our Declaration of Independence and the Revolutionary War.

The colorful stripes also bring about a feeling of festivity and suggest the furling bunting traditionally used at celebrations. The symbol is contemporary in design in keeping with the forward-looking goals of the Bicentennial, "to forge a new national commitment, a new spirit for '76, a spirit which will unite the nation, as it moves into its third century."

The official bicentennial logo pin is available in a presentation folder. Send $1.50 to cover postage to the Alameda County Bicentennial Commission, P.O. Box 2001, Dublin, CA 94566.

Dublin High stages perennial favorite

ABBEY PLAYERS OF DUBLIN HIGH SCHOOL

Frustrated in making an advance because he is dressed as an elderly aunt, Richard Branton faints at the sound of the voice of his long lost conceal love.

Meanwhile Paul Gordon attempts to conceal the incriminating evidence of trousers showing beneath the 'aunt's' frock in Act II of 'Charley's Aunt.'

There's life in the old girl yet, say the Dublin High School Abbey Players.

That frisky lady known as "Charley's Aunt," comes to the Dublin High Little Theater for two performances, Dec. 5 and 6.

Probably no other play outside of "Hamlet" or "Uncle Tom's Cabin" has been so constantly performed throughout the English-speaking world as has "Charley's Aunt," first produced in London in 1892. The comedy tells of the madcap events that result when a young Oxford student attempts to impersonate an elderly aunt "from Brazil, you know, where the nuts come from" in order to provide a chaperone for a young lady visitor.

The comedy is heightened when the real aunt unexpectedly arrives and is introduced to "herself."

Richard Branton will be seen as the young man who poses as the aunt in a naive conception of how this elderly lady would presumably act. Wayne Winchip and Paul Gordon play the roles of fellow students, with Kim McIntire as the young lady seeking a chaperone, and Vicky Catalini as her friend.

Mary Arent portrays the real aunt, supported by Dennis Pavao, Matt Dion, Brian Farley and Rosina Edge. The play is directed by Clifford Donley.

The curtain rises Friday and Saturday at 8:15 p.m. Tickets at $1.50 for adults and $1.25 for students with cards are available at the Dublin High School office and at the door. For reservations or further information contact Mrs. Holmes at 828-6410.

Plant Talk

By SUE JOHNSON

If you're lucky enough to have a Norfolk Island pine, decorate it with baubles, tinsel and other decoration and transform it into a living Christmas tree. Another holiday plant to decorate with small baubles is the holly fern. I envision it with groups of very small, round ornaments tied on with red velvet ribbons.

Just in time for Christmas, a great gift when in bloom is the kalanchoe. Light pink, yellow, rose pink, orange and red are the radiant colors of the flowers. Call them KAL-AN-KO-EES.

Another pretty ivy for Christmas giving is the variegated German ivy, also called Kenya ivy. (The first plants were collected in Kenya.) When it blooms, there is no mistaking the plant for ivy — it produces two-inch yellow daisy flowers. To produce these flowers, the German ivy requires good light; plants receiving less light will make good foliage plants.

The Christmas cactus is a sensational plant when blooming. If you have ever despaired about getting your plant to flower, cheer up. All you need is a little know-how and your Christmas cactus can be a real showpiece, too.

Unlike other cacti, the Christmas cactus resents too much direct sunlight. If you want to grow it in a south or west window, you should hang sheer curtains in the window to diffuse the light. This is not necessary for northern or eastern exposures.

Then there is the matter of watering. Christmas cactus is not a dry-soil plant that can be neglected for weeks on end. Treat it as you would a coleus during most of the year — average humidity and temperature, good light and regular watering. Be sure the soil is porous.

Now here's the trick! With-hold watering in the fall for one month (it's too late for this year, but remember for next year.) Resume watering cautiously in November, but don't let the stems get flabby. From October on, keep the plant where it's cool at night, 60 to 65 degrees. You may not like the chill, but your plant will.

A well-tended Christmas cactus can, in not too long a time, reach unmanageable size.

A fleeting afternoon sky turned crimson above San Francisco, suitable for recreating Sherman's march in "Gone With The Wind."

Back across the bay, night descended on the Oakland Coliseum. It was supper time, yet the parking lot buzzed with activity. The jumble of traffic persisted at the exits. Courageous youngsters darted between the automobiles to flag down frisbees.

That crowd of 50,860, all expecting to beat the sun home, was detained at the stadium Sunday by the Oakland Raiders' 34-31 overtime triumph against Atlanta.

The fans watched breathlessly as George Blanda, for the second straight week, missed the potential winning field goal in regulation time, only to boot the decider in sudden death. The scoreboard clock read 0:00 as his dramatic kick floated over the crossbar. It was nearly 5 p.m.

If Howard Cosell and Frank Gifford have altered America's Monday night social patterns overtime football is muddling things up on Sunday afternoon.

Plenty of dinners were left scorching in the self-timing oven in the wake of Oakland's victory. Quite a few restaurants remained empty for an extra hour. And the tailgate parties, historically a pre-game extravaganza, were rekindled far into the night.

Football fans love overtime.

Players don't.

It had been Oakland's second straight extra session, the first, a wearying five-quarter affair in Washington a week ago. While the spectators revelled in the glory of Blanda's renewed heroics, the players staggered.

The Raiders' actually secured their fourth straight AFC West championship by defeating Atlanta, but there was no prolonged celebration. Only grateful sighs that the game was over.

"I'd rather beat them in four than go to overtime," said Jack Tatum, who suffered a twisted knee and a sprained ankle on his left leg.

"Overtime is just one of those things that you don't need," remarked Clarence Davis, who strained a muscle in his hip early in the fifth quarter.

"Last week's overtime, coupled with a six-hour plane flight, took a helluva toll," added coach John Madden. "This week it will be a little bit better because we have an extra day off."

(The Raiders don't play again until Monday night).

There have been seven sudden death games in the NFL this year. Though the overtime rule is in its second year of existence, it remains a phenomenon to football fans, and football writers. Both groups puzzled over the rules Sunday, not knowing how many timeouts each team received (two), whether or not a two minute warning would be issued (it was), and what would happen in the event of a tie after five quarters (the game would end deadlocked).

Players and coaches are well-versed in the extra period's technicalities, but they aren't enamored with the whole concept.

"In a championship game it's good," said Davis, "but because of the 43-man rule this year it's not right for the regular season I don't like it for a couple of reasons. First, if you don't get the coin toss, it's to the other team's advantage. And then if George hadn't made the field goal, it would have been just an extra 15 minutes to get a tie."

"I don't like it," Tatum snorted simply. "I wish we would have scored a touchdown with one second left in the fourth quarter to win it. It took a toll on us," Tatum said, "but five quarters or not, Atlanta was just a good team. It was a hard game regardless."

"Overtimes are fun to play in when you win," said Ken Stabler, who obviously enjoyed burning the Falcons for four touchdown passes. "If you don't get anybody hurt, then they don't take a toll."

Davis was injured early in the extra period when he slipped on a wide pitchout play. The injury, he said, was not the result of overtime, but the Coliseum's poor footing.

Davis' departure could have been damaging to the Raiders, who spent most of the fifth quarter running the football. In fact, both teams played carefully conceived offense in the extra period until the final hectic minutes.

It was as if the spectre of sudden death had turned them timid.

"But timid is a bad word for this kind of game," said Madden. "Everything depended on what we were trying to do. If your objective is time and first downs, you run the ball. If it's a quick score you go to three wide receivers and pass. We used a combination of everything in overtime. I had guys running in and out of there all the time."

"The only thing you don't want to do in overtime is hurry," said Stabler, who certainly didn't, using up 14:58 before giving way to Blanda.

"You just revert to your regular game plan, but you don't rush anything or force anything because you've got a whole quarter."

"If anything, overtime sharpens you up," Davis said. "It makes you aware because it's a pressure situation."

"Nothing changes," added Tatum. "You just play your regular defense, but don't let them get the big one over you. When you start worrying, that's probably when you get beat."

JACK TATUM

Why has Chabot College dominated soccer since it became a varsity sport in California community colleges?

There are probably varied reasons. But the fact that it draws from EBAL high schools could be chief among them. The Gladiators, who won their second state championship last Saturday, and their first outright, thrived this season on athletes from Dublin, Pleasanton and Livermore.

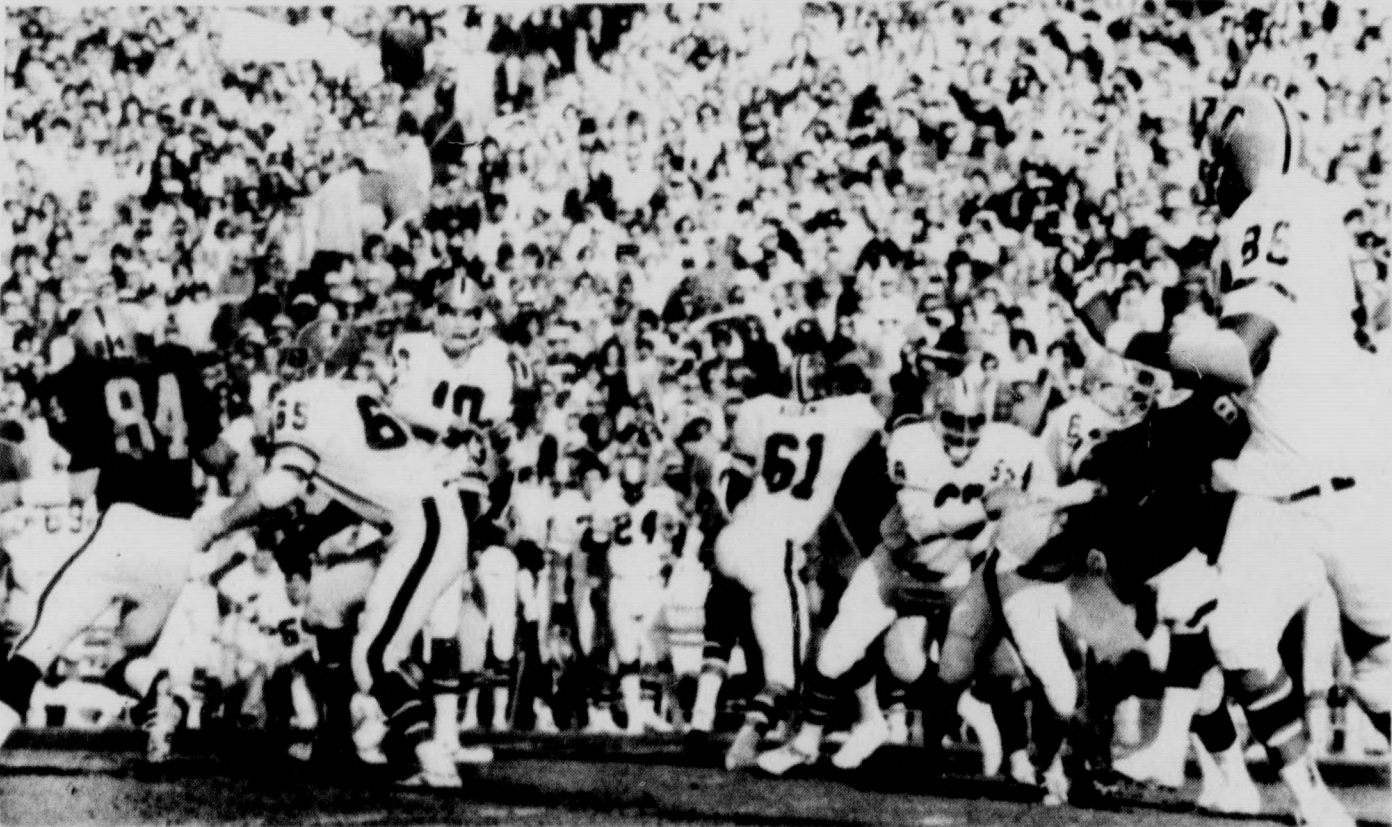

Two of them, Steve Hector and Dave Anderson, could be All-Americans. A third, Kelly Clark, should make the All-Northern California team. Others, like Tim Wade and Derrick Hoxie, might be overlooked on all-star rosters, but not by coach John Shaw. "It's difficult to say who the most valuable player is, because so many guys did a great job," Shaw said yesterday.

Still tingling from his team's 2-1 win over East L.A. in the state championship match Saturday, Shaw said he will promote the chances of goal keeper Hector and forward-midfielder Anderson for next month's All-American selections.

Hector was named the All-American goal keeper last year as a freshman.

Both names will be submitted by Shaw to a panel of California coaches who will discuss the nominations, then rate the players. If they pass inspection, the names Hector and Anderson will be sent to New York where the All-American committee meets final selection of the team will be released in January or early February, Shaw said.

Hector posted 10 shutouts for Chabot this past season in 24 games. He yielded an average of less than one goal per game. Remarkably, it was an even better season for the Amador Valley High graduate than his freshman year Hector did not have a veteran defense to protect him this season

TV, PU undefeated, face showdown

Tri-Valley Soccer Club and Pleasanton United set up a showdown two weeks hence in the Alameda Soccer League by winning matches last Sunday.

Tri-Valley whipped previously undefeated Fremont, 4-1, while Pleasanton edged American International, 1-0.

Both local teams are 3-0, and will play Sunday, Dec. 14, at 10:30 in Livermore's Robertson Park Stadium for the league lead.

In other action last weekend, Diablo Valley rolled past Dublin United, 3-1.

Tri-Valley was sparked by the league's leading scorer, Rich Timmons, who notched his sixth and seventh goals of the season against Fremont. John Young and Mike Ramil also scored for the winners. Assistants went to Myron Hord and Ed Garcia (two).

Goal keeper Ralph Woods played an outstanding game and in fact helped Tri-Valley preserve the victory. With the score 2-1 early in the second half, Wood blocked a Fremont penalty kick to prevent a tie game Big Bob Mason, 6-3, 220, played well at sweep.

"It will be tough for him to repeat as an All-American, however," Shaw said yesterday. "There are two or three other goalies who were outstanding. Canada had one and so did Foothill."

It was Hector, Shaw said, who turned around the game for Chabot Saturday. With the score tied 1-1 in the first half, Steve stopped two blasts that seemed headed for the nets. I place both saves in the brilliant category," the coach gushed. "I thought they were sure goals. One he blocked with his body from close range, and the other he dove for. It could have been 3-1 if it wasn't for Steve."

Anderson, the other All-American candidate, scored both goals in the Saturday triumph for Chabot. He finished the season as the Gladiators' leading scorer with 10 goals and 10 assists for 20 points. Anderson, from Dublin, scored three times in the playoffs, and assisted once.

Dave played at halfback and wing for the Gladiators, and will be promoted as an All-American at either of the positions, Shaw said.

Clark, Chabot's co-captain, is in the running for All-Northern California honors, according to his coach. "It's difficult for a freshman to make All-American," Shaw pointed out; "but he could next year. He doesn't score or get much notice because he plays halfback. But he scored a goal and had two assists in the playoffs, and he's been a great captain. I'm pushing him for All-Nor Cal," Shaw revealed; "but I shouldn't say I'm pushing, because he deserves it."

Saturday's triumph handed the Gladiators their first undisputed state championship. They tied the same East L.A. team a year ago, 0-0, to share the first sanctioned California soccer championship title.

Chabot has been the Golden Gate Conference's only soccer champion, as well as the only champion Northern California community colleges have ever had.

Yesterday the coach's office was draped with a congratulatory poster prepared by the Chabot athletic staff, and adorned by the blue and gold state championship trophy.

And Shaw's heart was warmed with the knowledge that 18 of his 29 players will return next season. As for the graduating sophomores, well, he can dip down into the EBAL to replace them.

Local booters upset outsiders

Despite warnings that visiting teams might dominate, two Pleasanton squads and one from Livermore won age-group championships last weekend in Ballistic Soccer Club's Holiday Classic.

In fact, of the eight berths in Sunday's finals at Aquatic Park, five went to teams from Dublin, Livermore or Pleasanton.

In one of the top local dramas, under-12 Ballistic United blanked the Dublin Paddys, 3-0.

Ballistic scored two quick goals in the first eight minutes of action. Mike Deleray struck for the first, assisted by halfback David Woodward. Mike Nieto had the second score on halfback Jimmy Hutchinson's assist. Deleray came back for the third goal in the second half on Karl Kesterke's assist.

Ballistic goalkeeper Scott Wilcox had six saves. Defensive standouts included Fonz Hutchinson, David Woodward, Scott Strommer, Edward Kinyan and Kevin Ackerman.

In another all local final, the under-8 Ballistic Ensigns stopped the Ballistic Elks, 2-1.

Dave Cure scored the winning goal in overtime. Mike Maciorski scored the Ensigns' first goal to tie the score at 1-1. Gavin Heitman scored for the Elks.

Jeff Reiter, Jeff Richter and Jeff Carter keyed the Ensign defense. Dan Kaiser, Matt McGuire and Todd Schmidt played well for the Elks. In the under-10 championship, the Livermore Raiders trimmed Fremont Ajax in penalty kick overtime, 4-1.

Livermore's Kevin Carnes scored in the second half forcing a playoff at the end of regulation time. The contest went to a penalty kickoff, with Louie Aguiar, Joel Chase and Shawn Kyle scoring for the Raiders. Goalie Tony Leonard had seven saves for Livermore. Into Neumann, Gary Johnson and Kenan Pierce were outstanding for the winners.

In Sunday's final championship contest, the under-14 Ahwahnee Chiefs of Fresno blanked Calgary, 3-0.

Defense was the key for the Chiefs throughout the tournament. They did not yield a goal during three days and four games.

Everett Stephens scored two goals for the winners, and Craig Maytubby had one.

Ron Pardo, Tom Lopez and Brian Lawless of the Chiefs blunted the Calgary attack. Calgary's Carey Blid had 10 saves in goal.

Ten year olds speak from their own podium

LIVERMORE — Activity Day at Fifth Street School, and all the children are bustling off to their music classes or art period.

But in Paul Johnston's classroom, students are studiously sitting at the "speaker's table" or out in the "audience," listening to a 10-year-old sounding off at the podium.

It's public speaking class. "Teaching people to speak well is one of the oldest human professional skills, dating back more than 2,000 years," teacher Johnston reports.

"Public speaking is one medium for drawing the shy child out of himself."

"This can be most beneficial for this type of youngster when he has a chance to stand up before his classmates and talk about a book he has read, a movie he has seen, a trip he might have taken or a television program

Mental Health Council meets

The Valley Council for Mental Health of the Mental Health Association of Alameda County will meet Thursday, Dec. 4 at 8 p.m. in the State Savings and Loan Building, E. Stanley Blvd., Livermore.

The council will review a collection of educational pamphlets on mental health. Nominating committee chairman Don Williams will report on nominations for new council officers. Current chairman Clarence Hoenig has decided not to serve as a council officer next year.

The council is also likely to discuss Chairman Hoenig's October report to members of the Valley Council on Mental Health.

Hoenig's report details three reasons for the council's continued existence:

- To continue to lobby for a 24-hour crisis center in the valley.
- To educate valley residents in the area of mental health, recognizing mental health problems can be solved.
- To work for the extension of future mental health services in the valley.

Park district studies police force planning

With a master plan for growth under its belt, the East Bay Regional Park District will be shelling out $44,444 for a police force planning study.

The Sacramento office of Arthur Young and Company will be making the study to help plan the future of public safety and law enforcement in the district's 29 parks totaling 33,000 acres. The district deals with 27 law enforcement agencies and 13 judicial districts. Response time at the park, in emergencies, averages half an hour at present. One of the study's goals is finding ways to shorten the amount of time it takes to get police and emergency vehicles to the scene.

The study will also seek to suggest ways of decreasing the district's rising crime rate and increasing the ability to prevent environmental damage.

Merchants begin to put up Christmas displays

Naomi Payton of Christesen's Mens's Wear at 633 Main St. in Pleasanton hangs a silver star above a doorway in the shop. Christesen's was one of the earliest in putting up Christmas displays.

Christmas tree swirls surround lightposts in the downtown area of Livermore symbolizing the beginning of the season shopping rush. Pleasanton will hopefully get its decorations up sometime this week, a Chamber of Commerce spokesman said yesterday.

Hanging candy cane mobiles at the Gingham Corner gift shop at 177 West Neal St. in Pleasanton is Joyce Getty. A wide variety of presents awaits eager buyers in time for the holiday season.

Jim DePaiva places a long-armed Santa into the drummer's seat at the Valley Music House at 2156 First St. in Livermore as they too prepare for the Christmas rush.

Betty Cappello places a garland of silver across the front of a display counter as Ken's Cameras readys itself for the onslaught of Christmas shoppers to their store at 1380 Railroad Ave. in Livermore.

Diane Haddad of Taurus Crafts at 520 Main St. in Pleasanton puts the finishing touches on an above counter display, one of the earliest and larger decorations this year.

WIN AT BRIDGE
Jacoby checks speed limit

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Here is one of Oswald Jacoby's good hands. He reached a very normal six-spade contract after opening an artificial forcing two-club bid.

The play started quickly enough. He won the diamond lead entered dummy with a heart led a small spade to his queen which held the trick. Then he ruffed a diamond to get to dummy again and led a second trump. East played low and the moment of decision had arrived. Should he play the king or the 10? Alvin Roth, sitting East was capable of ducking twice with the ace without batting an eye. In fact he had done just that. Tobias Stone, sitting West, was just as capable of ducking smoothly if he held the ace.

Jacoby did play the king and make his contract. The decision was not a mere guess. After considerable thought he had come to the conclusion that Stone had followed to the first spade just the very least bit slower than his normal tempo and that if Stone had actually held the ace he would have played low a trifle faster than his normal tempo.

Ask the Jacobys
An Oklahoma reader wants to know if an opening-suit two bid is forcing to game in standard American bidding.

The answer is "Yes," but most advanced partnerships play that if opener rebids his suit after a negative response, partner may pass with an absolute blank hand.

Science Applications opens

PLEASANTON — Science Applications, Inc., which produces self-contained educational activities for intermediate school grades, is now located in new quarters at 80 Mission Dr.

According to a spokesman for the firm, which was formerly located on Rose Avenue, the science activity packages produced are designed "to save time and effort preparing meaningful science activities for students at intermediate grade levels."

An electricity unit consists of eight activities that use the electricity board and a few easily obtained materials.

Follow-up activities can be used by students to carry on further investigations. They are related to the activity but are intended to provide additional avenues for exploration by students that are interested.

SAI states that "science activity packages stress student involvement in scientific problem solving including the gathering and organizing of information and the consideration of evidence before reaching conclusions. Because the activities are success-oriented, they help develop positive feelings about science."

A pamphlet describing the packages has been written by David Buchla and N. Paul Orr. Marketing director for SAI is JoAnn Scott.

Bandettes enter three competitions

LIVERMORE — Livermore High's bandettes are filling their calendar with competitions this winter.

On Dec. 14, three Bandettes will enter an all-day competition sponsored by the California Drill Institute in Fresno. Arlene Baak, Maria Parish and Lisa Tarin of Livermore will perform as a team, with Arlene and Maria also scheduled for individual routines. The girls are also planning to go to three other competitions. On Jan. 10 they'll be at Mission San Jose High in Fremont; March 6 at Sacramento; and March 13 and 14 at Clovis High. The Bandettes are members of the Livermore High marching band. The squad is made up of specialty squads for drill teams, large and small flags, and twirlers.

During the summer, members spent several days at a camp near Santa Barbara to further their skills in these routines. Money for camp and entry fees for competitions are paid by funds raised by the Bandettes themselves.

A stamp collecting

Stamp collecting, a popular hobby in the Valley, is turning into a teaching gimmick too.

According to the promoters of Stamp Expo '75 (held Nov. 28-30 in the St. Francis Hotel, San Francisco), art students can create their own miniature art museums with the stamps of many nations that magnificently reproduce the world's greatest masterpieces.

And they're a natural for teaching history — hardly a nation misses the chance to commemorate national heroes and historic events on colorful stamps.

The United States Postal Service has a program available to schools on the history of the United States on stamps from our nation's birth to the bicentennial.

Fred Lee, a teacher at La Sierra Academy, Riverside, used enlarged full-color reproductions of stamps, supplemented by maps to form an "instant recognition" history of the United States, its people, events, inventions and politics from the day of the early discovery of America to the American-Soviet linkup in space.

Take an educational trip around the world by reviewing the costumes, art, flora and fauna of many nations via their stamps.

It's more than just a hobby!

EBRPD honors park workers

Two Valley residents were honored for their long service to East Bay Regional Park District.

Elmer E. Lagel of Pleasanton, supervisor of Sunol Regional Wilderness, received a pin with the traditional EBRPD stylized left, commemorating 15 years employment.

Among those recognized for 10 years' service was Walter Knight of Livermore, supervisor of Shadow Cliffs Recreation Area in Pleasanton. William E. Brewster, former Sunol Regional Wilderness groundsman who recently resigned, was recognized for five years with the district. Awards were made at a breakfast last week at Kaiser Center, Oakland.

Foothill High band at Magic Mountain

The Foothill High School band paraded through Magic Mountain Thursday as a feature of the southern California amusement park's Thanksgiving Day program.

Magic Mountain is located in Valencia, just off Highway 99 and near the San Fernando Valley.

Following the parade, members of the band and director Robert Moorefield were guests of the park to enjoy its many rides and attractions.

Valley View kids on TV next Sunday

PLEASANTON — The Valley View School fifth grade class of Lee Zachariades will be seen on "California Countdown" this Sunday at 9:30 a.m.

The program, featured on Channel 7 (San Francisco), concentrates on California history with two Bay Area classes competing each Sunday.

On this Sunday's show, Valley View's victory over a Berkeley fifth grade class will be shown.

The 216 points recorded by Zachariades' class when the show was video taped three weeks ago constituted the highest total achieved up to that date. Final score was 216-94.

Zachariades says that viewers on Dec. 7 will note that students compete in three categories, the first section involving the entire class and consisting of true-false questions related to California history.

Daisy is home

This Cindy Merwin of Mockingbird Lane, Pleasanton as she appeared a week ago looking longingly at her empty pasture where Daisy, her horse should have been. She had been riding the previous Sunday with a friend at Bonita Park off Foothill Road. They stopped briefly and Daisy slipped her mooring and took off. The dark brown, six year old quarter horse was missing for several days while Cindy mourned and wondered how an animal that large could be lost. But the story ended happily. Daisy is home and Cindy is happy.
